MENGO TOJURY ON MURDER CHARGE

William E. Rakes and Grover Beamer, of Patrick, Alleged to Have Killed Ann Hall.

SISTER ALSO SHOT DOWN

But She Claims to Have Recognized These Men-Were Looking for Nephew.

DANVILLE, VA., April 11.—The grand jury in the United States court here this afternoon returned indictments against William E. Rakes and Grover Beamer, young white men of Patrick county, for the murder of Ann Hall, an aged white woman, and for felonicus assault on Jane Hall, her sister. Rakes has been arrested, but Beamer is at large and cannot be found. The murder of Ann Hall was one of the most brutal and flendish crimes ever committed in this section. Ann and Jane Hall resided together in a cottage near Charity, about thirty miles from Stuart, with their nephew, Pete Hall, aged eighteen years. On Sunday night, March 24th, between 1 and 2 o'clock, a mob of men armed with shortums surrounded the house and riddled the building with bullets. Ann Hall, who was sixty years of age, was shot to death through the window, while in a room attired in her nightelethes, feer sixter who is about fifty years of

All Heavily Armed.

Looking out of the window, Jane Hall says that she saw at least half a dozen men in the yard, all armed with shotguns, and she believes that others were in hiding in the woods and shrubhery near by. After the shooting had subsided, she says that Grover Beamer, whom she recognized, came into Later Rakes knocked at the door and Jane Hall asked him to come in and assist her in moving her dead asister to the bed. Rakes, she declared, replied: "No, let her sleep where she is." Jane Hall was unable to recognize the other men who had congregated in the yards.

From the first it was suspected that the mob was composed of men who operated litleit distillerles in Patrick county, who were under the impression that the Hall family were acting as spies and informing the revenue officers of their op rations. Several days prior to the attack by the mob an illicit distillerly had been raided, and it was suspected by the officers of being owned by Rakes and Beamer. Reports had also been in circulation in the neighborhood that Pete Hall had been alding the government officials, and the general belief is that the shots were fired malniy for the purpose of getting him out of the way.

Found He Had Money and Crushed His Skull to Obtain It, So It Is Alleged.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch,] NORFOLK, VA., April 12.—Leo C. Thurman, who is charged with having murdered W. P. Dolsen in an East Main Street boarding-house February 1, 1906, is almost certainly the man being held in Vancouver, B. C. A photograph received this morning by Chief of Police Boush identified him.

"It is Thurman," is the positive conviction of all those who knew him here, and who have seen the photograph which was sent by the Vancouver police, and it now seems that the murder of Dolsen is to be avenged after a year and two months of ceasiess search for the murderer by Chief of Police Boush, of Norfolk, and others.

An immediate effort will be made to secure a speedy return of Thurman to Norfolk for trial. Chief Boush states that an effort will be made to have him returned here in the custody of a Vancouver officer. Failing in this he will dispatch one or more men from his department to bring him back. The question of his return here may resolve itself into an international one, as Thurman is now on Brtish soil. And should be refuse to yoluntarily come back, the refuse to voluntarily come back, the somewhat uncertain and more or less dilatory extradition proceedings will have to be resorted to to obtain him.

May Be Much Delay. However, by a treaty now in effect between the United States and Great lowever, by a treaty now in chect between the United States and Great Britain, those charged with felonies will be extradited from one country to another without delay. With money and shrewd lawyers, however, it may be a considerable time before Thurman is again seen in Norfolk.

The crime with which Thurman stands charged is one of the most atrocious ever committed in Norfolk. He and Dolsen were roommates in the East Main Street boarding-house, where the murder was committed. The night of the crime Thurman is said to have borrowed an axe from his landlady on some slight pretext, which in reality was to be the means of possessing himself of a sum of money which he knew Dolsen had. He awaited his chance, which came when his victim was quietly sleeping, and with a single blow he crushed his skull, producing death without a struggle.

blow he crushed his skull, producing death without a struggle.

As calmly as he had carried out all of his horrible plans, he put the lifeless form into a trunk, which he had brought for the purpose, locked it and tagged it to be expressed to a station in North Carolina, after which he disappeared completely, as far as the Norfolk authorities were concerned, until his arrest in Vancouver authorities will receive the $400 reward, which still stands good. Governor Swanson, of Virginia, offered $100, and the L. O. O. F. Lodge of Norfolk of which Dolsen was a member, offered $300.

NORFOLK, VA., April 12,-Captain Cor-drey, commander of the barge J. H. Marto reach Norfolk. The Dixie's tow broke adrift, and the barge Frank W. Cummiskey, Jr., sank with all on beard. Four men were lost—Captain John Egan, master of the Cummiskey; his son, a negro deckhand aboard that barge, and another from the Perryville. Captain Cordrey said that the Dixie, which was bound from Baltimore for Norfolk, towing five loaded barges, was just above Cape Charles, when the barges, with their crews aboard, broke adrift. Captain Cordrey, had a boat which could live in the heavy sea, and tried to get the Cummiskey's crew to understand his signals that the would let the boat drift back to them on a line. They could not understand him, apparently, and as the Cummiskey drifted rapidly, she was soon out of reach.
